

Young Hercules

Date

1967

Primary Maker

Ed Rossbach

Materials

Jute, cotton, ixtle; looped

Description

This unevenly shaped weaving resembles an ancient mosaic floor that has been partially destroyed. The piece shows a figure with large eyes, curled hair, and a straight nose. Surrounding the man is geometric patterning. It has mainly earth tones. The fiber is looped loosely to create an open weave.

Dimensions

38 1/2 x 84 in. (97.8 x 213.4 cm)
