

Young Hercules

Date

1967

Primary Maker

Ed Rossbach

Materials

Jute, cotton, and ixtle

Description

This unevenly shaped weaving resembles an ancient mosaic floor that has been partially destroyed. The piece shows a figure with large eyes, curled hair, and a straight nose. Surrounding the man is geometric patterning. It has mainly earth tones. The fiber is looped loosely to create an open weave.

Dimensions

38 1/2 x 84 in. (97.8 x 213.4 cm)